COURSE ABSTRACT

This course aims to build on the existing English language capabilities of the undergraduate students, both spoken and written as they enter academic life. The academic linguistic environment is very different and more demanding than that which they have previously encountered in secondary school.

Especial attention will be also paid to identifying fake news and to digital safety and digital security as these are very pertinent issues in today's world.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

This course has the following main objectives:

Knowledge:

1. Professional communication: CV (written /video), email, reference/motivation letters, short oral presentations about topical events.
2. Essay and academic writing traditions using the Argumentative essay as a foundation.

Skills:

3. The ability to construct a comprehensive and relevant CV (both written and video).
4. The ability to produce various formal written documents using the appropriate format and language.

Competencies:

5. Enhanced confidence in presenting themselves in both a spoken and written form in a professional and academic environment.
6. To have developed the ability to construct and argue their point of view in a reasoned and convincing manner.

GRADING CRITERIA

Criteria	Weighting
Written CV (not Europass)	10%
Video CV (2 – 3 minutes)	10%
Email	5%
