COURSE ABSTRACT

The aim of the course is to present the mosaic system of domestic and international banking (financial) market from the EU perspective and outside of it. The European Union has been active within the financial sector, in particular after the financial crises of 2009. Students will learn about institutions involved in European supervision, e.g. European Central Bank as well as they will be taught about various regulations over banking market. While an emphasis is placed on a step-by-step review of each subject-matter, the theoretical part is supplemented with practical exercises enabling students to strengthen their legal skills.
